WASHINGTON CLOSE SECOND IN RACE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 27.—The eight blades of the navy's late yesterday afternoon, came driving down the tide to the slender craft of the triumphant midshipmen, and figuratively pulling their hearts out, eight young men from the state of Washington finished a race that should live long in the memories of water men.

They had to smash a record this afternoon, did those men of machine like motion, who sat in the navy boat, for all along the Hudson shore a booming cry dimmed their ears. "Come on Washington!"

Not only did that off-recruiting shout force the midshipmen to ply their strokes for a course record, it compelled them to shatter a world mark for a three mile distance for variety's sake.

Here's another thing that vibrant yell of "Come on Washington!" did to such matters as rowing records. All six crews bettered the mark of 14 minutes and 7 seconds establish last year by the navy on the same waterway.

Washington clipped it to the melody of 13 minutes, 36 1-5 seconds. Syracuse, belaboring the tiny ripples that played on yesterday's calm and shimmering stream vainly hoping to retrieve the three-quarters of a length that Washington had acquired, did the three miles in 13 minutes, 38 2-5 seconds. Talk of figures, records and technique, however, no matter what their importance, is deadly dull in comparison to the emphasis given to that shout "Come on, Washington."

She has filed for the democratic nomination. "I just desired I'd like to be justice of the peace and get some good legal practice on the side," Miss Dodson said.

HUBBY FORCIBLY BOBS WIFE'S HAIR; DIVORCED

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 27.—Because her husband was a cave man and bobbed her hair in defiance of her wishes, Mrs. Mae G. Turk was granted a divorce in Judge Thomas H. Buckner's court here.

Mrs. Turk testified that her husband, John Turk, forcibly bobbed her hair. "Don't you like bobbed hair?" Judge Buckner quizzically asked. "Well, it may be stylish, but I don't care for it and besides my husband put glue on mine after cutting it," the plaintiff explained.

WHISKERS FOR ALL

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 27.—(U. P.)—Adopting as a motto, "It is time for us whiskered men to stand together," some members of the famous Whiskers Club of Sacramento have taken up the fight of Hans Langseth of Barney, North Dakota, against alleged "land swindlers."

Hans reigned during the Sacramento "Days of Forty-nine" revival last month as "King Whiskerino" by virtue of his 17-foot beard, the longest in the world. Whiskerinos found their kind felt he had been swindled out of nearly $20,000 and his son paid for California land.

George A. Wark, Whiskerino attorney, offered to fight the case for King Whiskerino. Twelve other beard lawyers of Sacramento volunteered their services.

This staff of thirteen lawyers conferred and filed complaint before the state re-entry commission, demanding that Hans be given back his money.

HAYNES WANTS MORE SHIPS TO HUNT RUM RUNNERS ON COASTS

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Whether prohibition really prohibits still provokes acrimonious debate. But prohibition at least seems to be paying its own way. Enforcement of the dry laws upon the present rigid scale, is held by Commissioner Haynes to be more than self-sustaining.

Counting what the Government actually collects from fines, Commissioner Haynes maintains that prohibition enforcement is paid for, and then there is left probably as much more for the United States Treasury. In the past six months figures submitted by prohibition directors set forth that collections in penalties imposed upon violators exceeded $10,000,000. In one group of noted cases, Haynes said, comprising more than twenty members of the wealthy liquor fraternity, most of them brewers and distillers, the fines aggregated more than $1,000,000. In another group, almost as large the fines and penalties assessed exceeded $600,000.

Commissioner Haynes maintains that a better attitude by the courts is responsible for heavier revenues from this source. His records, he adds, show the imposition of larger fines than were imposed in the early days of prohibition. He suggests also that stiff fines are having an important effect in keeping down violations or at least in preventing the violators from getting into the class of second or third offenders.

Prohibition finances thus cited are not embraced the very much larger sums involved in seizure of property and extraordinary assessments, which are tied up in pending litigation. Enforcement officials estimate that $20,000,000 is due the Government by violators in contested cases. Many of these, however, may not be tried for several years and when tried may result frequently in defeats for the Government because of disagreements by juries.

The figures shown are significant. They are important because prohibition officials will demand from Congress a sum which may run as high as $20,000,000 next year for prohibition enforcement. The amount now allowed is $10,000,000 a year. The argument will be made that prohibition always can be depended upon to return to the Treasury 100 per cent more than it costs. Mr. Haynes is ambitious to build up a big "dry navy." He will not be content with a small fleet of sub-chasers to cruise the coastlines. He wants a regular navy. It will take money to provide it. But he will be prepared to show that the Treasury will benefit by the experiment. He also wants a large force of rum raiders. The present force of 2,500 for the entire country is entirely inadequate, he declared. Successful enforcement demands a force so strong and efficient as to all of the avenues of liquor will be closed. In Mr. Haynes' opinion:

OLD MAN KEPT TASTE.
LONDON, June 27.—(U. P.)—The old men do not lose their taste was successfully proved at Portsmouth when Alderman F. Power, 84, was appointed official tea taster to the Portsmouth board of guardians institution. Power drank sips of fifteen hundred different cups and told the blend of each by a sniff and a click of his wetted tongue.

THE BAKING POWDER QUESTION SOLVED

Most housewives proclaim that the baking powder question was solved for them the moment they used the first spoonful of Calumet. After that no doubt remained—no hoping—no searching for a perfect leavener—no wondering if bakings would "turn out all right."

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

has solved the question because in all these thirty years it has never failed to produce wholesome and appetizing foods at an economical cost. It is as pure and sure as any baking powder ever made.

Calumet is more economical than other brands selling for less because its quality is the highest—no losses from spoiled bakings.

Use Calumet once—that's enough to prove to you that it's "best by test."

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.
